ECZEMA CURED IN SIMPLE

WAX.

No More Dosing the Stomach—Cure
the Skin Through the Skin.

When you have a scratch on your hand you wash it out and cleanse it and then the skin cures itself.

The best skin specialists today are agreed that the only way to cure the skin is through the skin. For statistics show that nearly all eczema suffers are perfectly healthy in all other ways except as to their skin. And if the eczema patients were really suffering from an internal malady, the entire body and not only the skin would be diseased.

You can prove immediately the relief of a true skin cure by using oil of wintergreen as compounded in D. D.
D. Prescription. This liquid kills the disease germs, while tending to the healthy part of the skin.

We have now handled this method for some and have seen its reliable results so many times that we freely express our confidence.

OBITUARY.

Lamont Doorman.

Word has been received by Mrs. J. J. Doorman, of Tomah, who has been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Lloyd, 311 Madison street, that her son, Lamont Doorman, had passed away in Miami, Oklahoma, having been found dead in a room of an hotel.

Mr. Doorman lived here in this city four years ago and has quite a number of acquaintances to whom the notice of his death will cause quite a shock. The remains will arrive here tomorrow and Mrs. Doorman, accompanied by Mrs. Lloyd and Mrs. Mark Dunlap, will take the body to Tomah, Wis., where the funeral will be held.

Henry Wells.
Henry Wells, who died at his home west of Footville on Feb. 16, 1900, at the age of 79 years and twenty days, was born in Addison, Kent, England, Jan. 27, 1820. He was married to Miss Eliza Kettle in 1855 and they came to America in December of the same year. In March, 1856, they reached Janesville with just ten cents in cash with which to buy the foundation for a home in a strange land. Both he and his wife soon secured employment and earned enough money to tide them over until opportunity came to the husband to work a farm on shares. After working for other nine years he was able in 1865 to purchase the place which had since been his home.

In the fall of 1881 Mr. and Mrs. Wells made a visit to their native land. The six children born of the union were: Henry Wells, Mrs. Jane Dabson—now deceased, George, William, and Charles Wells, and Mrs. Alice Quinn. Besides the widow and children there are left to mourn his loss: two brothers, a sister, eighteen grandchildren, and six great grandchildren.

The deceased had been a faithful member of the Christian church since 1881. He was a kind and loving husband and father and to relatives as well as to the host of friends who knew and appreciated his intrinsic goodness and worth, his passing has brought deep sorrow. The funeral was held from the home on Friday, Feb. 19, the Rev. Mr. Bullock officiating, and the interment was at the Grove cemetery.

WAR AND FINANCE

It is an interesting fact that when war is imminent or is really in operation Consols drop on the different trading marts of the world. It is one of the sure signs of impending trouble to watch the fluctuations of this interesting species of speculation. When the Consols dropped over two points last week the report of the possibility of Austria sending an ultimatum to Serbia came to the front. Austria meantime talked of replenishing its war chest, which was another cause for the change in price.

The casual student of history or the person who simply reads a little in the books of the world's history would be surprised to learn of the number of bloody conflicts that have happened in the past century. Actual wars, not merely diplomatic strife where no blood was let.

When the Crimean war broke Europe's forty years of peace, a surprisingly close sequence of campaigns was inaugurated. The Indian mutiny followed, and since then we may say that we have had at least twelve wars of international consequence. Those in the order named are the War of Italian Independence, our Civil War, Germany against Austria, France and Germany, the Carlist Rebellion in Spain, Russia and Turkey, Serbia and Bulgaria, Japan and China, Turkey and Greece, our war with Spain, the Boer war in South Africa, and last but not least, Russia and Japan.

This is an average of a serious conflict every ten years, even assuming that our war with Spain, the Carlist rebellion, the campaign between Bulgaria and Serbia and the comparatively recent fight between Greece and Turkey, or that between China and Japan, were really rather second rate affairs, apart from their political consequence, which was considerable. But this is not anything like all the butcher's bill. Great Britain has an independent record and there has been plenty of fighting elsewhere.

Great Britain has enjoyed in that time nearly twenty years of fighting in Egypt and a number of small wars in South Africa, of which the most important were that which terminated with Boer independence, the Zulu war which preceded it, and the Matabele campaign of comparatively recent date. Great Britain also has conducted a number of costly campaigns mostly on the northwest frontier of India to say nothing of the Red River rebellion in Canada, the Ashantee war, the conquest of Burma, a long campaign in New Zealand and a war with China.

The catalogue even with this is by no means complete. Italy has suffered a humiliating defeat in the Abyssinian expedition. Germany has been conducting a highly expensive campaign in a South African colony, not worth half the thirty million dollars the conquest cost, and France has enjoyed much promiscuous fighting in Algeria. The powers have joined together in coercing China, and that country has experienced the Taping rebellion, besides a more serious war with Japan. Incidentally the French have had trouble in Cochin China, and the Dutch have had chronic fighting in their east Indian possessions.

After all, it seems as if the safest volcanic area has been South America and there has been plenty of fighting there. Trouble there, however, is easily localized, and while there have been a number of bloody conflicts, of which that between Chili and Peru was the most serious, the international effect does not seem to have been large.

From this list it will be seen that a war of the first class has made its appearance at irregular intervals but at least every ten years, and fighting of lesser consequence at the rate of about once every two years. The millennium does not seem to be drawing appreciably nearer and, but for one very important consideration, the showing would be most depressing. Wars have a tendency now to become much shorter than they were even a century ago. The Napoleonic campaigns may be said to have lasted twenty years. The Seven Years' war, the Thirty Years' war, the hundred years of conflict in the low countries before Dutch independence was won, and the prolonged Marlborough campaigns which terminated with the treaty of Utrecht, would in modern conditions be impossibilities. National bankruptcy is now the great weapon in the hands of peace and tends to become an increasingly powerful instrument.

TAKES SAVAGE DIG

The Milwaukee Free Press has evidently lost all patience with one of its evening contemporaries in Milwaukee when it comes to discuss the phenomenon matter and has the following stinging rebuke to make as to their actions. Inasmuch as a former Janesville resident is mentioned it is republished:

"The despicable depths to which journalism sometimes sinks has been daily seen in the columns of an afternoon Milwaukee newspaper for several months, but it is still sinking lower and dirtier dregs in which it will find itself still more at home."

"No one in any way associated with Senator Stephenson is safe from its scurrilous and shameless defamation. Yesterday it printed a large picture of E. M. Hyzer and of the inscription on his office door, 'C. & N. W. Hy. Co.—Legal Department,' with the insinuation that Mr. Hyzer had used all the local attorneys of the railroad in the state in Mr. Stephenson's campaign. A few days ago it even suggested that Mr. Hyzer was trying improperly to influence the action of the investigating committee at Madison."

"Mr. Hyzer has been the Wisconsin attorney of the North-Western railroad for many years. Not long ago he became a member of the law firm which for years has conducted Mr. Stephenson's private business. No lawyer in the state stands higher in character and reputation with the courts and with the bar. No lawyer in the state better typifies the highest ideals of his profession, and outside of it he has never appeared in the public view, except to use his voice and influence for the promotion of good government and the public weal. To seek to undermine the confidence and respect of the people in such a man is as wanton as would be an assassin's stab in the back and in the dark."

"But no man, no matter how honorable his aims, how virtuous his life, is safe from the attacks of such a scurrilous press. He cannot be injured where he is known. His fellow citizens, his professional brethren, will hold him in no less esteem, but it is lamentable that there are some besotted individuals who regard themselves as reformers, who countenance such shameless disregard of personal worth and personal character, and who even think that the cause of reform can be advanced by such disreputable agencies."

The question of who shall be city clerk of Janesville is worth considering. Mr. Skavlem is a good man who would fill the office well and both Mr. Cummings and Mr. Kennedy would make good officials. However, sentiment appears to favor Mr. Skavlem owing to his campaign of two years ago.

This proposition of the Mayorship nomination is one which is causing some of the politicians to lay awake nights and figure out just what is going to happen. With two republicans seeking the honor and but one democrat the real primary fight lays in the republican ranks.

The fleet is back and now is to come the tales of the valor of the sailors in their trying, beautiful and interesting trip around the world.

Not Cocaine

Never before in the history of medicine has it been possible to extract teeth so painlessly as I am doing right now in Janesville.

Not that I take any credit as to discovery but simply that I have at last secured

The method which gets results.

I hear this story frequently from children, faint-hearted or strong minded men and women.

"Dr., you never hurt me a bit."

Nobody in Janesville knows what this agent is and I don't propose to tell them, only to emphatically say that it is "Not Cocaine or any derivative of Cocaine."

Let me demonstrate.

JURORS EXCUSED UNTIL APRIL 19

ELLSWORTH CASE WILL BE TAKEN UP THAT AFTERNOON.

CALL OF THE CALENDAR

Took Place Today—Bar Association Held Annual Meeting—Naturalization Petitions.

Sheriff R. G. Schell opened the February term of circuit court this afternoon with a clear, round "Hour Yea! Hour Yea!" The bar calendar was called by Judge Graham and on the main floor of the court house the jurors who were to appear here next Monday were called until the afternoon of Monday, April 19, at 2:00 p. m. This is done with the understanding that no jury will be called for the May term and that additional cases not already noticed may be stipulated for trial at that time. The action of the State vs. Elmer Ellsworth will probably be the first case to be tried.

In the twenty-five issues of fact for the jury the attorneys reported themselves ready for trial of all but the following, which are either to be settled or continued: Peter Bergeson vs. Anthony Schmidt; Andrew Lee vs. Albert Anderson; Montford Walden vs. the Rockford & Interurban Co.; and August Hager vs. the Rock County Sugar Co. The following will probably go over to the court calendar: Andrew Olson vs. W. H. Miller; W. P. Mason, and I. O. Fisher, and the International Harvester company vs. Jesse Noe. The appeal case of the Bank of South Wayne vs. W. H. Jack et al, which both sides were to have argued for the fourth time will not be dismissed until after the arrival of the member of the banking firm who is the plaintiff's attorney.

On today, of the issues of fact for the court the following were passed: M. F. Dunnington vs. the Rock County Sugar Co.; Mary J. Hoag vs. John Hoag; Orion Swetland vs. Helen Telford; Samuel J. Wolf et al vs. R. E. Lidgerwood; Edwin H. Walte vs. Richard Morley; and Daniel Smith vs. Reuben Case et al. The hearing in the matter of the organization of the Union drainage district is set for March 18. Arrangements were not definitely made for the preliminary incident to the appointment of the commissioners who are to adjust the question of damages between the interurban company and 40 or more property holders on Franklin street and continue the right of way along the "loop." The case of ex-Sheriff Ira U. Fisher vs. Rock County to recover for items which were disallowed by the county board may not be tried this term. The issue of law entitled Fred S. Richardson vs. Oliver S. Johnson was passed, Janesville vs. St. Ry. Co.

On motion of City Attorney Max held the action of the City of Janesville vs. the Janesville Street Ry. Co. to recover some $1,700 unpaid taxes for paving between and alongside of the tracks will be included in the second of issues of law for the court. This is done by agreement with Atty. J. C. Joffrey to expedite matters, the fact in the case not being questioned on either side. The defendant's counsel claims that where the original ordinance required the street railway company to pave between its rails and for two feet on each side of the same, this clause was afterwards repealed; and still later put back in the franchise. It is maintained that the repeal still holds, but the city will combat this position.

Naturalization.

No question having arisen as to the naturalization papers being in due form, with proper signatures, it was expected that all of them would be granted. They were filed by the following:

John P. A. Schumacher of Fulton, a native of Germany.
Silver Anderson of Holist, a native of Norway.
George L. Childs of Holist, a native of England.
August F. Johnson of Porter, a native of Sweden.
Henrik Henriksen of Porter, a native of Norway.
Anton O. and Edward Furseth of Magnolia, natives of Norway.
John Brinsell of Union, a native of Sweden.
John A. Forsyth of Union, a native of Norway.
Ole J. Hagen of Porter, a native of Norway.
Anton Johnson of Spring Valley, a native of Norway.
Knutte Grunmyhr of Janesville, a native of Norway.
Richard J. Hart of Janesville, a native of England.
Herman F. Wilke of Centor, a native of Germany.

Bar Association Met.

Out of town attorneys present in the court room were: H. Sprague of Broadhead, J. L. Sherron of Oak, A. Cleveland of Monroe, L. E. Gottle of Edgerton, Ray Clarke of Milton, and T. D. Woolsey of Holist. Attorney Charles Pierce who is counsel in a number of the cases is expected home tonight from a trip to El Paso, Texas, and Los Angeles, Cal. J. J. Cunningham is also absent from the city and several cases in which he is interested had to be passed.

The Rock County Bar Association held its annual meeting at 3 p. m. and listened to reports, with President William Smith in the chair. It was a foregone conclusion that President Smith, Secretary A. M. Fisher, and all of the other officers would be re-elected.

Woodmen Attention.

ADJOURNED MEET TONIGHT

Men Who Favor Cause of Temperance Are to Have Session—Majority Question.

This evening an adjourned meeting of the gentlemen who last week met and discussed the question of bringing up the license question for a vote this spring will meet in A. E. Matheson's office to decide the question definitely one way or the other. At the last meeting the proposition met with the strongest opposition on the part of several gentlemen who desired to allow the state laws take their course and wait upon the action of the legislature and the county option bills.

There was considerable talk before the first meeting of the gentlemen endorsing William Carle for the republican nomination for Mayor, but when this was brought up it is understood that strong opposition to such a step came and it was left over with other unfinished business for tonight's meeting. It is not probable that Mr. Carle will be endorsed although many of his friends who will be present at the session it is understood will urge this action.

Another Aspirant

Another aspirant for the Majority nomination on the republican ticket is said to be William Henry Harrison Nielson. Mr. Nielson said this afternoon he had made up his mind definitely whether to run or not, but that he would defer to become a candidate until Mr. Macdonald in the field makes three seeking the coveted honor, Wilbur F. Carle and Victor P. Richardson being already avowed candidates.

Much Hustling

Friends of the democratic candidate for the office, John Nichols, are very diligent in lining up the vote under their own control for him and meetings are being held each evening at which the campaign and the possible outcome is discussed in detail by those present.

THE LAST VOYAGE OF THE DONNA ISABEL

BY RANDALL PARRISH ILLUSTRATIONS BY DEARBORN MELVILL

CHAPTER I.

In Which Begins Adventure. Some may question the truth of this narrative, yet they will scarcely be found among those who "go down to the sea in ships." To them the unfathomable mystery adding upon the face of the great deep, the constant marvel of huge, heaving language of watery solitude, secret and profound, must ever remain so vast, so luxuriant, as to be beyond any interrogatory of the finite—the strange, the unexpected, lurking everywhere. To others, more landman, confidently imagining that all phenomena can be reduced within the contracted limits of human comprehension, I need say no more than that witnesses still survive to corroborate the principal incidents of this story, which I now purpose writing in the full glow of a memory still dominated by the events to be recorded.

It had come to be the 6th day of April, the year 1870, I, John Stephens, aged 24, occupied a rather comfortable seat upon the shaded balcony of that large, ultra-fashionable hotel at Valparaiso, which, as travelers will recall, clings to the steep hillside overlooking both the city and harbor beneath. I was alone, not having as yet ordered the serving of the evening meal.

A gayly attired military band was playing noisily in a nearby plaza, and through the intervening distance I was able to distinguish plainly the patriotic notes of national music. I even believed that a melody of shouting voices, mingled with an echo of cheers, was borne to me on the rising night wind, and I leaned above the low railing to gaze down, slightly interested, as a regiment of Chilean infantry—regulars of the line, from their white trousers and stiff hats—swept swiftly past the hotel corner in rapid time, to disappear suddenly over the steep crest in the direction of the quay. Far away, toward the right, where the long row of gray-stone barracks was still dimly visible against the darker background of surrounding hills, was to be discerned a glimmer of steel, as squadrons of cavalry and artillery engaged in dress parade, their numerous banners flapping against the sky. At the moment these several occurrences served to awaken the merest interest, tending rather to bring home to memory a freshening knowledge of the desolation of my situation.

It can all be told in few words: I was persona non grata to the Chilean authorities, with apparently every possible avenue leading forth from the country fully and effectively barred. While personally unknown to those officials, thus far successful in making my movements under the guise of a foreign gentleman of leisure temporarily resident at a fashionable hotel, I nevertheless discovered it impossible to break through the cordon of watchful government spies and shake the Chilean dust from off my feet. A rapid explanation will suffice. A native of Massachusetts, of excellent family connections, together with prospects of future wealth, I early developed the unrestrainable propensities of a rover, and after a vain effort to turn my reluctant ambition toward one of the learned professions my parents, despairing of ever doing better, finally consented to apprentice me to the sea. Unfortunately for the realization of their more secret hopes, I took to that hard, adventurous life as a duck to water, so that, at the end of five years' service, I had risen, through the various grades, to the honorable position of first officer in the old Leyland line, my steamship being the Vulcan, trading between New York and South American ports.

Soon after I attained this berth my father died suddenly, leaving behind him a fair amount of property, a goodly share of which came to me in cash. It chanced that, during a previous voyage, a passenger on board had succeeded in interesting me deeply in certain mining operations which he was conducting under a Bolivian concession. Finding myself in possession of abundant means, and experiencing but occasional disgust for sea life common to all sailors, I embarked with boyish enthusiasm in this new enterprise, not only investing a considerable amount of money, but likewise giving the company my personal services as assistant superintendent.

Beyond doubt our concession was an extremely valuable one, but, as we were soon destined to discover, it came to us with an unfortunate flaw in the title, there developing a spirited controversy between the constituted authorities of Bolivia and Chile, over which country the territory involved belonged. From harsh words in public, and the private exchange of diplomatic notes, the argument rapidly advanced to blows, and was finally referred to the arbitration of the rifle. As our financial interests were entirely Bolivian, and our invested money at stake, it was no more than natural that we should openly ally ourselves with that struggling faction which the Chilean authorities promptly denounced as insurgents, and proceeded to crush.

It was something of a comic opera war, resulting in two or three skirmishes wherein ill-equipped and poorly officered patriotas were pitted against regular troops of the line, and, as we received from Bolivia no more substantial aid than vague promises, our resistance, though rather stubborn, was soon overcome. When the final wild stampede for safety came, I discovered myself, as quartermaster general of the late revolutionary forces, still in possession of a considerable sum of money, to which no one else possessed any better claim, the unhealed scar of a Chilean bullet in my shoulder, and an exceedingly flattering chance of being summarily shot by drumhead court-martial if caught. An opportunity for retreat across the Bolivian frontier was already effectively blocked, but, after several weeks of excessive hardship, struggling amid the dark recesses of Indian huts in the mountains, I succeeded in stealing unobserved into Valparaiso, feeling confident that, as a sailor, I should be able to discover in that busy seaport some early opportunity for escape.

This confidence was doomed to bitter disappointment. The Chilean authorities were especially desirous of apprehending me, inspired doubtless by visions of the war-chest, rumored to be of far greater value than truth could justify. They were both alert and suspicious. The American consul was obdurate to pleading, refusing peremptorily to become involved in the affair, while no war vessel floating the flag of the United States, to which I might flee for protection, entered the harbor. Manifestly it was impossible for me to depart on any foreign vessel as a passenger without possessing the necessary papers properly vouched, nor could I even ship as seaman before the mast without running the gauntlet of numerous suspicious officials especially warned to apprehend me. In brief, though possessing ample means, I was a helpless prisoner, my only safety the keeping out of sight from all in authority within the narrow confines of the hotel.

Sitting there in solitude that evening I thought it out all over again for the hundredth time, bitterly cursing myself for a stupid fool, yet utterly unable to discover any venturesome prospect of ultimate escape. I was trapped as securely as though the hand of actual arrest was about to be placed upon my shoulder. I might, by thus continuing to skulk in the dark, delay the result, yet the final ending was inevitable. Beyond doubt I was cornered, and the time was ripe for the eager acceptance of any reckless opportunity. Yet, desperate as I was, I could perceive none; everywhere arose the same blank wall of Chilean power, impassable, unassailable, insurmountable. Saint Andrew's mine was a situation to chill the blood.

The stars began to gleam in the black void of sky overhead, those brilliant, scintillating stars of the south in their unfamiliar constellations, forever reminding me that I was an alien and a stranger. The city itself, wrapped within the deepening folds of this early night mantle, appeared unusually noisy and demonstrative. I dimly wondered at it. There was a ceaseless blare of bands, a melody of inarticulate cries, mingled with the continuous disorder of shuffling feet along the roughly paved streets. I could distinguish nothing definite as I hung anxiously over the balcony rail, staring idly down, yet it was plainly evident that the entire population was astr with some increasing excitement. Far out toward the distant mouth of the harbor a fortress battery was firing salvoes of artillery, the swift flames of discharge cleaving the black shadows in vicious spurts of yellowish red, the sullen reverberations of sound shaking the hotel casements. Some Holy Santa's day, I imagined, wondering idly what special devotion of the church could be responsible for so much of uproar, so general an outpouring of enthusiasm. Still, the thought held me barely for a moment; my own personal affairs were far too serious and insistent for any wasted attention upon the saints. I turned back from the rail and glanced curiously within. The great dining hall was already brilliantly illuminated, and a number of the tables were surrounded by guests. It formed a cosmopolitan scene, the grouped aces being representative of a wide variety of races, the scraps of conversation which floated to me through the open window revealing half the languages of Europe. Swarthy Spaniards, voluble Frenchmen, silent sons of Al-bion, talkative Yankees, bowdlerized and bespectacled Germans, blonde, rosy-cheeked Swedes, together with representatives from half a dozen South American countries, were indiscriminately mingled in sudden brotherhood. This motley, interesting company was composed principally of men, exhibiting here and there the glimmer of military uniforms, or some peculiarity of attire attesting the presence of the inevitable globe-trotter, although the majority were plainly enough commercial gentlemen, interested in various lines of trade, and drawn into this vortex from the four corners of the globe in the wild scramble after gold. No foreign passenger steamer had entered the harbor within the past 24 hours, and I had already studied those faces before in the vague, shadowy hope of discovering a friend. I lit another cigar, and sat silently watching a Chinese attendant lighting the colored lanterns suspended along the balcony roof. A sudden rocket went swiftly and sizzling up from out the center of the great plaza below, and my eyes followed its swift flight into the black sky until it burst into a thousand miniature stars.

When I turned once again, now half inclined to beckon a waiter and order the serving of dinner, a newly arrived company of guests had taken possession of the small round table just within the open window. Three were in the party, apparently father, mother and daughter, beyond question of high social class. Father, sitting in stately dignity at what might be considered the head of the table, a broad uplink spread across his right knee, was typically aristocratic, of spare figure, stern lean face, with iron-gray hair, and mustaches trimmed to perfect point, his eyes, cold and emotionless, gleaming like steel points behind gold-rimmed glasses—a man certainly over 60, possessing to the extreme that irritating hauteur possible only to an Englishman of recognized family and position. The lady occupying the seat opposite him, whom I naturally presumed to be his wife, was fleshy enough to own an ample double chin, which drooped to a vaster expanse below; most expensively gowned, her fingers laden with diamonds, and a forgotten at her eye, through which she deliberately surveyed the assembled company. Her evident attempt at duplicating the calm haughtiness of her emotionless companion was nevertheless somewhat of a counterfeit, as it failed to conceal wholly a slight twinkle of amusement curving the corners of her mouth, and a certain slight vulgar uneasiness of manner. His ideal was evidently that of a marble statue, cold, immaculate, his slightest movement revealing the frigidity of one born to the purple, while my lady retained some semblance to flesh and blood, although well veneered by long social artifices. He was nature, while she had evidently been developed by skill; yet the matron, to my thinking, proved far the more interesting specimen of the two.

AFTER SUFFERING ONE YEAR

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Milwaukee, Wis.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has made me a well woman, and I would like to tell the world of it. I suffered from female trouble and fearful pain in my back. I had the best doctors and they all decided that I had a tumor in addition to my female trouble, and advised an operation. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me a well woman and I have no more backache. I hope I can help others by telling them what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."—Mrs. E. M. Linn, 833 First St., Milwaukee, Wis.

The above is only one of the thousands of grateful letters which are constantly being received by the Pinkham Medicine Company of Lynn, Mass., which prove beyond a doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, actually does cure those obstinate diseases of women after all other means have failed, and that every such sufferer woman owes it to herself to at once give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial before submitting to an operation, or giving up hope of recovery.

Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health and her advice is free.

MRS. MABEL PERKINS BELL AND HER HUSBAND, C. BURDETTE BELL, WHO SHOT C. C. DRURY IN SELF-DEFENSE AND TO SAVE THE HONOR OF HIS HOME.

Denver, Colo.—A young wife, married by a second-rate actor, a 20 months' old baby, as cute and as sweet as any innocent child in the world, a wronged husband and father, are the principals in the Bell murder case now on trial in this city.

The circumstances surrounding the shooting of C. C. Drury by Mr. Bell are most pathetic. Mrs. Bell, who is still in her teens and the mother of a 20 months old baby, became ambitious to go on the stage. One day she noticed an advertisement which seemed to be an opening for her and she answered it. The man who had advertised was C. C. Drury, who was trying to get together a company for the road. She met Drury and during the rehearsals which followed the two became enamored of each other, and Mrs. Bell, taking her child, deserted her husband for the actor. Mr. Bell was out of the city at the time, but upon his return sought out his wife and endeavored to induce her to return to his home, but she refused. The next day he shadowed her until he located her and Drury in the Leon rooming house at 1523 Curtis St.

Mrs. Bell answered his knock when he demanded admittance and then fled through the hallway before the fatal shot which resulted in the death of Drury was fired.

MRS. REED KNOX, DAUGHTER-IN-LAW OF THE NEXT SECRETARY OF STATE.

Mrs. Knox and her interesting baby, named after his illustrious father, and known as Philander Knox III, live with her husband at the senator's home on K street. Mrs. Knox has many warm friends in Washington, who by her charming character. She is truly an ideal mother, and her greatest delight is in her home life.

or $2 for every vote received by him at the primary. To determine the way the money was used, and if any was offered for corrupt or illegal purposes, the legislature has appointed a committee of eight members, with Spencer M. Marsh of Neillsville, one of the leading criminal lawyers of the state, as chairman. The probe will be started this week, and will not only be an inquiry of Mr. Stephenson's methods but of the six other senatorial candidates at the primary. Mr. Marsh is about 40 years old and is a republican state senator. The committee, which began the work of investigating this week, will not be assisted by a lawyer, owing to the appointment of such an eminent lawyer as Mr. Marsh at the head of the committee.

FEEBLE OLD LADY Has Strength Restored By Vinol

Mrs. Michael Bloom of Lewistown, Pa., who is 80 years of age, says: "For a long time I have been so feeble that I have had to be wheeled around in an invalid's chair. I had no strength and took cold at the slightest provocation, which invariably settled on my lungs, and a cough would result. My son learned of the cod liver preparation called Vinol, and procured a bottle for me. It built up my strength rapidly, and after taking three bottles I am able to do most of my work, and I can walk a distance of a mile easily. Every aged or weak person who requires strength should try Vinol. I am delighted with what it has done for me."

As a body builder and strength creator for old people, delicate children, weak, run-down persons, and after sickness, Vinol is unexcelled. If it fails to give satisfaction we will return your money.

GOOD WRESTLING IN BELOIT LAST NIGHT

Mysterious Conductor of Chicago
Throw Minneapolis Middleweight
In Two-Round Match.
(Special to this Gazette.)
Beloit, Wis., Feb. 23.—The mysterious conductor of Chicago was last night the winner in a two-round wrestling bout with Peterson, the fast Minneapolis middleweight. The former tipped the beams at about 183 and the latter at 161. Both bouts were fast and Peterson gave the conductor a hard time. It took seventeen and a half minutes to decide the first bout and seventeen for the second. Peterson was clever and shifty, although he was compelled to act largely on the defensive. His favorite hold was the half-Nelson, but the greater weight of his opponent was too great an obstacle to overcome.

The conductor worked slowly using only simple holds and bringing Peterson down with the too-hold both times. Both bouts were free from roughness and provided a very clean exhibition.

At the close of the match Peterson publicly challenged the conductor to a match two weeks from tonight to be held in the Beloit opera-house for a purse of $100. Peterson claims that his opponent cannot get two falls in an hour.

As a preliminary to this bout, a couple of young local athletes, Tom Lyatt and Fred Sly, tried for conclusions in the best two out of three and Sly was the winner in the first two, pulling his man down in the first and one-half and three and one-half minutes, respectively.

Physical Director D. M. Evans of the college refereed both matches.
The conductor announced that he had a match scheduled with a Turk from Chicago who has recently arrived to contest with him at Beloit next month.

Class Track Meet

The annual class track meet between the sophomore and freshmen classes of Beloit college was held yesterday afternoon in the South gymnasium, and the freshmen carried the meet by the final score of 54 1/2 to 48 1/2. Nat Miller of Mt. Carroll, Ill., winner of the sophomore class, was the star of the meet by winning the individual score of 19 points, including three firsts, a tie for first and a tie for third.

The events, winners and records were:
25 yards—sophomores 1:02.35
220 yards—sophomores 2:36.34
440 yards—sophomores 1:09.14
880 yards—freshmen 2:24.45
1 mile—freshmen 5:28
2 miles—freshmen 12:39.45
Low hurdles—sophomores 1:01.25
High hurdles—sophomores 2:04.24
High jump—sophomores 5 ft. 3 in.
Pole vault—freshmen 15 ft. 9 in.
Shot put—freshmen 34 ft. 1 in.
Relay race—sophomores.

The 220-yard race was the most hotly contested event of the meet. There were twelve men on the track, each man given an individual try-out against time. In this race, Miles equalled the best previous record of 26 3/5 seconds held by Arnold of the senior class.

On March 6 the annual inter-class meet of the college will be held in the gym.
